WOMEN'S CLUB NOTES

The Women's Club held its first tion, meeting of the year at the library on Monday evening, with 40 members present. Mrs. G. M. Powers presided and the new secretary, Mrs. Harriet Farnham, was at her post of duty. The Vermont Federation song and club prayer formed the opening, with Miss Nita Ellis at the piano. Applications for five associate members were read by the secretary.

At the suggestion of Miss Moody the proceedings of the meeting were the late Mrs. Wasson.

Mrs. Powers gave a few words of greeting, thanked the club for her re-election and expressed her gratitude "for the lovely basket and its auto stage will be changed to meet contents" that she received while at the above changes on the electric the hospital, this being the first road. meeting of the club since that time. However, she did describe some very interesting things relating to women's work in various places through which she passed, and closed her remarks with these inspiring words: "So we find that throughout the whole United States women are doing the very same work that we are doing. All working for better bodies, better minds, better babies, better sanitation and better citizenship. All are students in the school of development, working out the problems peculiar to their localities. "Does it not thrill you, my friends, to think that we (if only 125 strong) are marching shoulder to shoulder with one and one-half million other women in our beloved country? To know that even our efforts help the 30,000 other clubs to attain the desired end? To feel that by concentrated endeavor future generations of little feet will walk in paths of health and happiness; little hands will grow to usefulness and service; little minds will develop through education to knowledge and power to be used for the good of our most wonderful country? Will you be a spoke in the wheel of progress? Will you whirl with the wheel at an oft-times dizzy pace that the load of united efforts following the afternoon session. of thinking women may travel where the needs seems greatest?
